

With Eagles' Wings

How Eagles Reflect Our Spiritual Journey

Passages: Proverbs 30:18; Job 39:27-28; Exodus 19:4; Deut. 32:11; Isaiah 40:30-31

The title: With Eagles' Wings or How Eagles Reflect Our Spiritual Journey

Speaker: Bob Stone, Hillcrest Chapel, Bellingham, WA

Series: Attitudes and Actions of a Growing Church--Part 7

Introduction: I want to take a break from the way I usually teach and simply reflect on eagles.

A. I am fascinated by eagles, even though there is much about them I don't understand.

1. I have had encounters with eagles many times in my life and I am always amazed by them.
  - a. I went with Bob and Betsy Patton through the Inside Passage off Vancouver Island one summer, and we watched eagles from the boat as they swooped down to catch fish out of the water.
What amazing hunters--what amazing "fisherbirds" they are.
(Show footage of eagles catching a fish.)
  - b. Last fall I traveled to the Skagit River on a stormy day to take pictures of eagles.
(Show one picture I took.) They are so majestic and awe-inspiring.
  - c. One of the phenomenons I have had with eagles is that at various times they have come out of the nowhere and flown over my head. (Show footage of eagles in the sky.)
    - 1) I remember one time I was exhausted and recovering from a total breakdown. As I was crying out to God for strength, an eagle flew right over my head, at the exact time I was asking for strength.
    - 2) Then I heard my heart quote a familiar verse: "...those who (wait) hope in the LORD will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles..."--Isaiah 40:31.
(Put the verse on the screen over the footage.)
2. Because of these experiences I prepared a seminar I call, Eagle Flight, in which I share spiritual disciplines, or spiritual health habits I have found that help us Fly With The Eagles.

- Show the notebook.
- You can order one of these at the Information Booth if you like, or you can wait until we do the seminar in the spring.

3. Also, if you go to our web site and look for the transcripts of my messages, you will find them under the same title: Eagle Flight.
  - Just as eagles are fascinating,
  - I want to do what I can to show how fascinating the Scripture is too.

Obviously I am not the only person who is curious about and fascinated by eagles.

B. Agur was amazed by eagles--Proverbs 30:18. Who was he? (Turn to Proverbs 30:18.)

1. In the book of Proverbs, chapter 30, we have the sayings of Agur.
2. In verse 18, this is what he said: 18] “There are three things that are too amazing for me, four that I do not understand: (the first of the four is) 19] the way of an eagle in the sky...” For Agur, the eagle amazed him and was often the symbol of vigor and vitality.

C. David saw the eagle as a symbol of strength, too. He says in Psalm 103:

2] Praise the LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits--(David then lists several things and concludes with)... 5] who satisfies your desires with good things so that your youth is renewed like the eagle's.”

With those examples in mind, I want us to see that eagles are not only fascinating, amazing and symbolic of strength, but they really do help us to see ourselves. In fact, we'll see:

II. How Eagles Reflect Our Spiritual Journey--how we can soar with eagles.

Let begin with where the eagle lives and how they raise their young. What can we learn about our spiritual journey by viewing the eagle's nest?

Here's what we will discover (show a picture of a nest):

A. The Eagle's Nest. It shows us how we will grow into maturity. It's not only a nursery for the young, it's their school, too--Job 39:27-28; Deuteronomy 32:11; Ex. 19:4. (Show a picture of an eagle with her young chicks.)

An interesting fact about the eagle's nest is:

1. The location of the nest. It is very important to the eagle and its young.

How many of you know this:

a. If it is possible, eagles build their nests on the face of cliffs.

- They don't build a nest in a tree unless they absolutely have to,
- because a nest in a tree can be easily accessed.

b. Also, they don't build it on the top of the cliff,

- because on the top of a cliff it can be violated, too;
- so they build their nest in some inaccessible place.

2. The building of the nest.

a. The nest is built with consummate skill—not using little twigs, but great branches.

b. They're woven together in an immensely skillful way.

c. If somehow an eagle's nest is loosed from its moorings and falls, it rarely comes apart.

- d. The weight of an eagles' nest has been weighed in at half a ton—that's how big they are. How comfortable are they?
- e. Their center is carefully lined with feathers and leaves,
  - and then the eggs are placed there.
  - When the eggs hatch, the mother begins the process of feeding the babies.

It is interesting to me; this whole process does not escape God.

3. The Bible knows about the nest--Job 39:27-28. Look at Job 39:
27] "Does the eagle soar at your command and build his nest on high? 28] He dwells on a cliff and stays there at night; a rocky crag is his stronghold. 29] From there he seeks out his food; his eyes detect it from afar. (It's in the nest.) 30] His young ones feast on blood..."
4. The gathering of food and the nest.
(Show a picture/clip of the mother feeding her young.)
  - a. Now it's the task of the mother to feed the little eagles.
  - b. I don't know why it's the mother's job, but it is.
    - The mother eagle goes out and finds the food;
    - flies back to the nest;
    - stands on the edge;
    - and drops the food systematically into the gaping mouths of the little eaglets.
    - It's an unending process.
  - c. Over and over again she flies out and flies back.
    - This has been carefully researched; while the mother eagle is out shopping, researchers have rearranged the little eagles in the nest.
    - But the mother eagle has an absolutely unerring sense—she knows exactly which ones have been fed and which ones have not been fed, and she never misses.
5. The lessons taught in the nest. What a beautiful scene from nature about how the Lord provides not only for the birds of the air, but how He takes care of us (see Matt. 6:26-27).
  - Let me ask, "Should we expect the scene in the nest to describe our spiritual lives forever"?
  - Initially, but not forever!

a. Obviously things don't go on like this forever, because the nest is not only a place of feeding, it is also a school of sorts.

- Let me show you "the ways of an eagle" in the nest,
- and give you a picture of our lives as well.

b. After the eaglets get to a certain size, or maturity, everything changes!

- One day the mother eagle comes back from being gone.
- But this time there's no food in her beak,
- and she doesn't land on the edge of the nest.

1) Instead, she hovers over the nest.

- You may not know this, but an eagle can do almost what a hummingbird can do.
  - Even though they are great birds, they can remain almost motionless in midair with those great wings just undulating in the breeze.
  - They do this about three feet above the nest.
  - I'm sure if little eagles could talk to one another, and maybe they can, one would certainly say, "My, what strong wings Mommy has."

Now why does the mother do this?

- The reason is the mother bird is demonstrating that those curious appendages on the babies' backs have a useful function.
- The strange thing is, eagles were meant to fly, but they don't know that.

- If we take an eagle and separate it at birth from its parents,
- it will never learn to fly.
- It will just grovel around in the dirt like a chicken.
- It might even look up and see eagles soaring overhead and never guess that it was meant to soar in the heavens.
- They have to be taught,
- and that's the mother's job.
- So first she demonstrates; that's all she does.

2) The next thing she does is come down into the nest and surprise her young.

- One can imagine how warm it must normally be for the little eagles to snuggle with their mother and be enshrouded with her feathers.
- But this time she puts her head up against one of the little ones, and as she does, she pushes that little one closer and closer to the edge of the nest.

"Hey mom, mom, what are you doing?"

- 3) All at once she pushes the little one out of the nest,
- and the little eagle falls down the face of the cliff,
  - surely to be destroyed.
  - But not so.
- 4) Then in a flash the great mother eagle flies down, catches the little one on her back, and flies up and deposits it in the nest.
- “Whew! Mom, that must have been an accident.”
  - But it wasn't an accident.
- 5) The mother bird pushes the little one out again, and again, over and over.
- Why would a mother do that to her young?
  - Is it that she hates the little one?

-- Not at all.

-- It's that those little birds were made to fly, and they don't know it, so she is going to push them out of the nest.

-- Oh, she never lets them hit bottom, but she does let them fall,

-- because they have to learn something they don't know.

Let's continue to watch and observe this nest and this mother eagle:

- 6) The next time the mother bird comes back she decides to clean house, and so she stands on the edge of the nest.
- The first things to go are the feathers inside,
    - and she drops them over the edge,
    - and there they go.
  - And then the leaves go over the edge--heave ho!
    - While this is going on she's not very talkative, either.
    - “Mom, what are you doing?”
    - She pays no attention.
    - Since she built the house, she knows how to take it apart.

- Next she decides to take the sticks out of the middle of the nest.
  - And with her great strong beak and feet, she's able to break them off and stand them straight up. "Mom, it's not comfortable in here any more."
    - But she pays no attention.
    - Again, because she built it, she knows how to pull it apart.
- 7) Then she takes certain key sticks out of the nest and throws them over the edge. *"What are you doing, mom? You are wrecking my room. I thought it was the young who wrecked rooms, not the parents."
- But she seemingly pays no attention to the concerns of her young.
  - What is she doing? She's preparing to pull the nest apart. Why?
- 8) She is determined that those little ones will fly and she knows something they don't.
- She knows they will never fly,
  - as long as they remain in the nest.
- c. Again, the Bible tells us all about these things. Deuteronomy 32:11 says, "...like an eagle that stirs up its nest (makes it uncomfortable) and hovers over its young, (showing them how to fly) that spreads its wings to catch them (as He pushes them out of the nest) and carries them on its pinions..." so is the Lord God to His people.
- 1) We need to learn that God is out to mature us.
  - 2) We need to know we were made to fly, so He will stir up our nest--our world.
  - 3) We weren't made to languish in the comfortable surroundings of our "nest-like world."
  - 4) We're created in the image of God, and thus we are made to fly and train our young to do the same.
    - You & I were made to soar, but sometimes we simply don't know it or forget it.
    - So there are times when God will push us out of the nest.
"Hey, God, what are You doing? I was enjoying the food You were feeding me. I just had to wait with my mouth open and You provided for my needs. What is happening now, Lord? I'm getting hungry. Surely You don't expect me to feed myself?"
    - Or maybe your eaglet experience is:
"Hey, Lord, what are You doing? I feel like I am falling--like everything in my life is heading for disaster. Surely You don't expect me to fall! How could I possibly be responsible to help others and be responsible for my own actions. You don't want me to fly, do You?"

- If you've known the Lord for very long, you've had that experience.
  - I suspect, more than once, you've been pushed out of the nest.
  - All of the security you had seems to be gone.
  - And then someone else expects you to feed them, when you have developed a liking to being fed by someone else.
- You know, I wonder if believers realize what they are saying
  - when they complain they are not being fed anymore
  - and they have to go to another church.

- Those statements testify to a person's immaturity, not their lack of feeding!
- They also are indications that the Lord is expecting more of them.
- He has put them in circumstances where once-a-week feedings are no longer sufficient and they need to learn to fly so they can feed themselves!
- If at any time we aren't getting enough to eat--at this church, or a college ministry, or a small group, then we need to acknowledge we are going through a growing spurt and we are requiring more food because of the things God has in mind for us to do!
- So it's not a time to look for another mother eagle, it's time to leave our comfortable eaglet lifestyle and fly!!!

- 5) Perhaps, right now you are in trouble and you attribute the stirring of the nest to Satan's activity.
- Certainly that is often the case, because Satan is a predator.
    - By the way, you'll know it is him
    - because of the destructive, or guilt-producing ways he tries to hurt you.
  - But we must understand that sometimes the trouble and pain we are experiencing is because it's God who is after us.
    - He's determined.
    - He wants us to fly.

- I want to say as clearly as I can, there are times when even God will destroy nests when we put our confidence utterly in the little securities we build around ourselves.

-- I know that to be true.
-- I have been thrown off a precipice into a free fall many times and sometimes God has swooped down at the last minute to rescue me.
-- But other times in my spiritual life I had to exercise faith and learn to fly.

- 6) We work so hard to get our life just the way we want it.
- God knows, however, that our comfortable life can be an anchor to our soul.
  - We're not able to fly, we're not feeding ourselves and we're unable to get out of our nest.
  - We are so dependent on the possessions we have and the support system we have acquired, that there are times when God is prepared to destroy our nest.
- 7) It's in those times we think we've been abandoned by God, because we wonder where He is.
- We feel ourselves falling and think maybe He doesn't care for us anymore.
  - "Why is this happening to me? Everything was going so good!"
- 8) But hear me when I say that sometimes, the Lord simply wants us to discover that underneath are His wings or His everlasting arms!
- 9) Other times, however, He wants us to learn that our security...
- is not in our bank accounts,
  - not in our job,
  - not in our homes or possessions,
  - not in our nation,
  - not in our health, but in the Lord God alone.
- 8) If you know the Old Testament story of the Exodus, you know this is what God did with Israel.
- He brought them into the desert where He fed them and clothed them.
  - Do you remember what God said to Israel when He brought them to Mount Sinai? He said: "You yourselves have seen what I did to Egypt, and how I carried you on eagles' wings and brought you to myself"--Exodus 19:4.
  - But soon after that He kicked them out of the nest and He wanted them to fly.
  - God wanted Israel to go into the Promised Land.
  - Sadly, they refused to fly & the result was they wandered in the desert 40 years.
  - That was not God's intention for them, nor is it for us.
  - We need to get out of the nest and try our wings!

Now looking back at the mother eagle's strategy. Let's look closer at:

B. The Eagle's Flight. It teaches us how to soar and not just fly; to catch the wind of the Spirit so we can have the strength to soar. Isaiah 40:30-31--"Even youths grow tired and weary, and young men stumble and fall; 31] but those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles..." (See: I Tim. 4:2; John 5:19; Matt. 11:30.)

1. A few minutes ago I said eagles fly, but that isn't the most accurate description of how an eagle gets into the sky.
  - a. In reality, eagles don't fly like other birds fly.
  - b. Oh they flap their wings from time to time, but that's preparatory to what they do best.
    - 1) If you have ever seen an eagle perched on a tree or a rock, it looks as though every muscle in their body is taut, and they are ready to fly--but they might sit there for hours.
    - 2) Last year as I was watching the eagles, I got impatient.
      - I whistled trying to get an eagle to fly.
      - It didn't move!
    - 3) You see, I didn't know then what I know now.
      - I didn't know an eagle has an inborn ability to sense the motion of air currents.
      - An eagle often won't budge until the right breeze comes along.
      - And when it does, you know what?--the eagle just lets go.
      - Yes, they do flap their wings, but mostly eagles just let go, and they are borne aloft on the wings of the wind.
    - 4) Birds don't like storms, but eagles love storms because it just forces them higher and higher.

Example: I read this week of an incident when the late Steve McQueen talked about flying a glider in the Rockies when he hit a thermal (a thermal is an updraft), and he decided to ride it as high as he could.

- He got somewhere around 14 to 15,000 feet. That is very high for a glider.
  - When he looked out the window he said, "You'll never guess. I saw eagles!
  - They had the ability to lock their wings.
  - It looked like they were asleep;
  - they were just riding the wind so effortlessly."
- Quoted in Life On Wings by Terry Fullam.

2. That is a wonderful description of what God has in mind for us. “...those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength. They will SOAR on wings like eagles...”
  - a. In the Hebrew language of the Old Testament, the word for wind is rawach.
    - It’s the same word for “spirit.”
    - The Spirit of God is called the rawach of God.
  - b. It’s also true in the New Testament.
    - Pneuma is the word for “wind,”
    - and it’s also the word for “spirit.”
  - c. It’s the same in Latin. Spiritus is translated “wind” or “breath” or “spirit.”
3. These words for soar and spirit are pointing us to a different kind of Christian life than many of us experience.
  - a. We’re talking about a life of service in which people are ready to serve God because they’ve made up their minds on that subject.
    - We don’t have to ask them every day, “Are you going to serve God today?”
    - They are ready--“...in season and out of season”--I Timothy 4:2.
    - They’re ready to serve.
  - b. But here’s the challenge of being “eagle Christians.”
    - It is learning to wait on the Lord, until we catch the wind of the Spirit.
    - Eagles believers are those who seek to find out where God is going, and then they go with Him.
      - They don’t sense fighting against the wind currents
      - They find out what God's doing and enter into it.
      - Jesus modeled this for us when He said in John 5:19-- “I tell you the truth, the Son can do nothing by himself; he can do only what he sees his Father doing, because whatever the Father does the Son also does.”
      - Never acting independently, never moving on His own, Jesus saw what God was doing and He moved with it.
      - That’s what “eagle Christians” do. They develop an ability to sense the motion of the Spirit and they won’t move until they know what God is doing.

- d. Oh, we know the opposite of an “eagle Christian,” because most of us have been a part of another kind of Christianity many times in our lives.
- It’s when we joined the cult of the white knuckles.
  - As members of this cult, we work for God. We don’t serve, we just work for Him.
    - We can tell we have joined this cult because of our disposition.
    - We are constantly tired and sometimes our health breaks down.
  - I am learning there is a better way.
    - The kind of weariness that comes from servicing God is the kind that is solved by a reasonable night’s sleep--that is okay.
    - But what happens when we only try to fly, when God has meant us to soar, to let the wind of God’s Spirit be our strength and carry us.
  - The simple call is to mimic the eagles, wait on the Lord and the wind of the Spirit will renew our strength so we can “...soar on wings like eagles...”

Looking at the eagle, there is one characteristic that many are aware of, and that is:

C. The Eagle’s Eyes. Their eyes encourage us to develop eyes to see what others cannot see --Job 39:27-29; Hebrews 11:13.

1. An eagle can see what other birds do not see.
  - a. They can see a tiny lizard on a rock at a thousand feet.
  - b. They can see the movement of a fish under water.
2. The Bible understands this and talks about it in the passage we looked at in Job 39: 27-29--“Does the eagle soar at your command and build his nest on high? 28] He dwells on a cliff and stays there at night; a rocky crag is his stronghold. 29] From there he seeks out his food; his eyes detect it from afar.”
3. Again, the application we’re focusing on leads to a different kind of Christian life.
  - If we “soar with the eagles,” our life will not mesh with the standards or the perceptions of our day.
  - In fact, our life will be a challenge to the values of society around us, and people won’t understand our decisions or our actions:
    - “You mean you’re going to give up your career and go serve somewhere?”
    - “You mean you like to go to church services and enjoy reading your Bible?”

- Many will not understand your values.
- They will wonder what has come over you since many of the things that preoccupied you for so long are now of lesser value.
- The hymn, "Turn Your Eyes Upon Jesus," says it well: "And the things of earth will grow strangely dim, in the light of His glory and grace."
- Hebrews describes the people of vision as those who saw something from afar: Hebrews 11:13-- "All these people were still living by faith when they died. They did not receive the things promised; they only saw them and welcomed them from a distance. And they admitted that they were aliens and strangers on earth."
- Eagle eyes see things in the distance and in the present--because they see what Jesus sees--Matt 9:35.

- They can see the horror of the World Trade Center bombings and be deeply touched by what they see.
- The eagle eyes of a mature believer will view the scare caused by the Anthrax terrorism and be very concerned and prayerful about those who are affected by this terrorism.
- But they will see beyond the senseless tragedy, too.
- They will see by eyes of faith that God can work in the midst of these evil circumstances and somehow bring some benefit to us!
- The eagle eyes of a mature believer are enlightened by the Scripture and not only feel the Spirit of God, they can see God working in the present and future.

- So they are not deterred by obstacles or frightening situations, but are resolute in seeing the good news of God's grace is proclaimed--in the worst of times.
- They want their friends and family to be ready for anything that might happen in this country and this world.
- They also see beyond their county and see the whole world and its needs.

There's another peculiar thing about eagles I want us to notice. That is:

D. The Eagle's Death. It reminds us to be ready to face the Son in our death--Acts 7:55-56.

1. The eagle's death is a beautiful thing, but it's not easy to explain.
  - a. Eagles seem to have a premonition when it comes time to die.
  - b. Eagles leave their nest and fly to a rock—always a rock.
  - c. They'll fasten their talons on the front of the rock, look straight into the rising or the setting sun, and they will die—feet on a rock looking straight into the sun.
2. As most of you know I saw an "eagle" die recently.
  - He was my father.
  - He had certainly done his work as an eagle with me.
    - When I was 18 I was expected to leave, or begin to contribute to the household.
    - The nest was made to be very uncomfortable.
    - It was time to fly and I was going over the side of the nest soon.
    - Oh, he picked me up a couple of times, but it was a fast-paced flying school.
    - I was not coddled, but he did make sure I was prepared to soar!
    - So I am thankful for the nest, and in retrospect, I am thankful for the push as well.
  - When his time had come to die he faced it like an eagle--independent, distant, a little defiant, but focused. I gave him a little help, but he didn't resist, because he knew it was his time to face the Son.
  - So he looked right into the Lord's face and was ready to go.
    - At the funeral, the pastor didn't gloss over my dad's ornery side.
    - He said my dad was the only guy he knew who you could hate and love at the same time. How's that for an epitaph?
  - So I've seen an eagle die--strengths and weaknesses were both obvious.
    - But there was no fear,
    - because his feet were firmly planted on the rock of Christ Jesus.
    - He was looking straight into the Son of Righteousness.
  - Obviously death is very mysterious; who can understand it?
    - Sometimes it robs a person in the prime of life.
    - Sometimes people die after an agonizing illness that just hangs on and on.
  - Who can't completely explain the "why" of death and the way of death?
    - But I do know this, there's a better way to die.
    - God wants us to be able to look Him straight in the face. With confidence we are ready to meet Him.

- That leads to the last thing I want to point you to in this reflection on eagles.
  - It has to do with:
- E. The Eagle's Birth. It makes it clear; if we are going to grow up to be an eagle, we have to be born an eagle. Or it is also true, if we are ever going to be a Christian, we have to be a reborn one--John 1:12-13. (That is such a simple thought; it is almost embarrassing to say it.)
- The New Testament makes it clear that the kind of life we inherit from our parents can never lead to eternal life, as wonderful or awful as they may be.
  - Jesus, talking to a religious leader by the name of Nicodemus said to him, Nicodemus, “you must be born again or else you cannot understand or enter the kingdom of God.”
  - So a new birth was declared by Jesus to be necessary to enter the Kingdom of God.
  - In John 1:12-13, John puts it this way: “...to all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God--13] children born not of natural descent, nor of human decision or a husband's will, but born of God.”
    - This makes it clear we have to receive our salvation in order to experience it.
    - There is an act of appropriation.
  - Being born a child of God is presented in the Bible as a gift--it has to be responded to.
  - We must receive it, it is never thrust upon us.
  - But if we reach out to receive and we believe in Jesus Christ, then we are given the right to become a child of God.
  - So if you have not received Jesus by a direct act of your will, then I want to encourage you to receive the gift of eternal life and become a child of God!.

In Conclusion: With the eagle's nest, flight, eyes, death and birth in mind, here is my prayer for you...

- My prayer is that you will remember that if you're ever going to become a Christian, you have to be “born” one.
- My prayer is that you'll understand something about the ways of God in caring for you and rearing you.
  - And you'll understand in those dark moments when you seem to be falling, or your nest comes apart, that it's God's purpose only that you may soar.

With Eagles' Wings

- And I pray that you will understand how to move on the wings of the Spirit, so that your efforts may last and you will not grow weary.
- I'm going to pray that you will be able to see as an eagle sees—not just discouragement, not just problems, but opportunities—that God will give you the opportunity to see His hand at work in this troubled world about us.
- And when it's time to die, I pray that He will grant to each one of us an abundant entrance into His Kingdom.

With Eagles' Wings
