

Some might say, "Okay then, why doesn't God make us good?"

Written by Bob Stone

"If He made us do the right things, then all our problems would be over." But when you think about it, life without freedom to choose the way we want to live is not really much of a life at all.

- God made a decision to create freedom, even though it would lead to pain and suffering.

- This constitutes a value judgment: freedom was more important than the avoidance of evil.